

More to Know About Our Futon

After about one week of usage the fluffiness will begin to settle, and the futon mattress will be stiffer and denser. After about two to three months of use, the cotton filling becomes even thinner (more constricted) and the futon will be about half of its original thickness. Although the volume decreases, the cotton fiber's "support features" become activated and the futon becomes a mattress that will support your proper sleeping posture.

There are the topper side and the bottom side. But it can be used on both sides.

The topper side has the binding threads.

The binding threads are for temporarily preventing the shifting of the cotton padding until it settles, so there is no problem if the threads fall out.

Please fold the futon mattress along the length when store it.

If you use them on a daily basis, the futon mattresses lasts for 3 years and the futon quilts last for 5 years on average. You can reuse the natural cotton filling as hand craft material, cushioning material or other purposes.

futontokyo.com
email@futontokyo.com

The Japanese Art of Sleep

Care Instructions for Our Handmade Futon

100% Natural Cotton Filling No Chemical Material

To keep your futon in the best hygienic conditions, please avoid the humidity.

It is said we sweat at least one cup of water a night even in the cold season. Futon retains the moisture. Too much moisture can lead to mold and mites.

It is most important to give your futon time to air out. Please fold up your futon mattress everyday.

The best care is leaving the futon out in the direct sunlight for about 2 hours for each side when the sunlight is strong. If it's difficult for you because of the living environment, hung the futon or lean it against something indoor where the futon can receive the sunlight as much as possible.

Cotton fillings are not meant to be washed. Machine washing can lead warping. If the fabric get stained, please use a damp cloth to wipe.

Futon cover is always recommended to protect your futon.

Air Out Regularly
Under the Sun (desirably more than once a week)

No Washing

Wipe Clean Only

No Beating
No Jumping on It

For Storing Long Term,
Use the Upper Shelf
to Avoid Humidity.